CUM ON FEEL THE NOIZE

When the late 1960s flower power pop gave way to a more dramatic sound of heavy guitars and throbbing bass-lines, Ozzy Osbourbe was heading up the musical revolution with his band Black Sabbath, right alongside now legendary artists such as Led Zeppelin, Deep Purple or The Who. Their sound created a musical phenomenon that took the world by storm and to this day unites its followers in a cult-like fashion: Heavy Metal.

The documentary "Cum on Feel the Noize" delves into the rich history of hard rock turned heavy metal music, from its scandalous origins in the 1960s to its heyday of the 1980s, from its glam phase in the 1970s to its indestructible present in 2017. The film features exclusive and long-lost archive material from concerts at early TV's music shows Beat-Club and Musikladen, as well as all-new original interviews with the living legends of metal and rock, discussing their personal place in the ever-rocking tapestry of music history and pivotal moments of the genre's evolution. "Cum on Feel the Noize" is your access-all-areas backstage pass to heavy metal and hard rock – and lets you experience the infamous "sex, drugs, and rock'n'roll" like never before.
